Game On: Cablevision Asks Fox for 'Fair' Agreement

Cablevision is silent no more, sending Fox affil sales pres Mike Hopkins a letter Tues balking at Fox's Oct 5 proposal for retrans consent. Saying Fox rejected CVC's Sept 21 offer, Cablevision programming chief Mac Budill wrote that Fox's offer is more than the MSO pays all other NY-area broadcasters combined. "Surprisingly, you made clear to me that this was a non-negotiable offer—that 'this is it," his letter said, calling on Fox to reconsider its offer or return to the negotiating table. Cablevision is also asking News Corp to refrain from pulling Fox 5 and My 9 and work to reach an agreement. "In a difficult economy, it is unfair and wrong for News Corp to demand huge fee increases from Cablevision customers for Fox's channel 5 and My9 and then threaten to pull the plug if they don't get what they want," a Cablevision spokesperson said. "Cablevision already pays News Corp $70mln every year for its channels, and now News Corp. wants more than $150 million a year for the exact same programming. We call on the executives of News Corp. to stop threatening to pull the plug and instead negotiate a fair agreement." Cablevision stands to lose the Fox O&O and My Network TV signals in its footprint at 12:01am Sat if a new agreement is not reached. Fox began a marketing campaign in Sept warning that subs could lose the stations as well as Fox Deportes, Nat Geo Wild and Fox Business. Cablevision has been mum publicly until Tues, while Fox has been running ads and its KeepFoxOn.com Website for several weeks. Fox could not be reached for comment at our deadline, but it has said the compensation it's seeking is "entirely reasonable," arguing that it's asking just a fraction of the $4-$5 ESPN receives. "The bottom line is that the Fox stations feature some of the nation's most-watched programming with shows such as 'American Idol,' 'House,' 'Glee,' and 'The Simpsons,' as well as the most compelling sports on television with the National Football League, Major League Baseball, and NASCAR. The price FOX is asking for as compensation for all this value is extremely reasonable," Fox said on its Website.

Ratings Clout: In recent days, the Yankees' Derek Jeter had a presence on TBS as a MLB playoffs participant, and in NY-area print ads used by Fox to highlight how Cablevision subs may miss out on the broadcast net's NFL and MLB programming this weekend if a new carriage agreement isn't reached before Sat (Cfax, 10/12 and see above). That double duty helps to underscore the power of sports in the cable universe. Jeter's club drove TBS to cable-topping ratings last week, and Fox is also using some affected pro franchises tied to its RSNs as leverage in ongoing distribution negotiations with DISH. At bat first, though, is the early performance of TBS' playoff coverage. Though down slightly YOY through 14 games, 9 of them and 1 related highlight/news block accounted for half of the top 20 cable telecasts last week and helped the net beat all others in prime with a 3.1/3.11mln. And perhaps more importantly, the net also moved to the leadoff spot on the 6am-11pm ratings list—ahead of time period stalwarts Nick and Disney Channel—ostensibly aided by the afternoon starts of some of its MLB games. Meanwhile, it should come as no surprise that ESPN's MNF franchise ruled prime cable again last week with a 10.4/10.40mln, or that its consistent strength helped the net trail only TBS in prime delivery. It has contributed to the NFL's record-setting overall ratings so far this season as well, a pace certainly not lost on Fox's

NY Giants QB Eli Manning joined Jeter in the aforementioned ads aimed at CVC subs, and vis a vis DISH, NHL and NBA franchises such as the L.A. Kings and L.A. Clippers haven spoken up on behalf of FSNs. Partners of Fox Sports West, both teams' are using their Website to address the net's darkness on DISH—and therefore many related games—through messages highlighting alternative video providers.

On the Hill: A GAO report backs up the National Broadband Plan, finding that 7 countries studied have taken similar actions to up deployment and adoption. All 7—Canada, France, Japan, the Netherlands, South Korea, Sweden and the UK—have instituted some type of broadband plan, and all have achieved higher levels of either broadband deployment or adoption than the US as of 4Q09. "GAO's report confirms once again the importance of the National Broadband Plan. [House Communications subcrite chmn Rick] Boucher and I stand ready to assist the FCC as the Commission works to implement the Plan, and we hope this GAO report will be useful," said House Commerce chmn Henry Waxman (D-CA).

Comcast-NBCU: ACA continues to push for its proposed conditions on a Comcast-NBCU deal, telling the FCC Tues that its proposals narrowly target the transaction-specific harms. The group's recommendations include requiring the jv to sell NBC O&Os and RSNs on a standalone, non-bundled basis to all pay-TV distributors. ACA said it believes the conditions FCC placed on News-DirecTV and Comcast and Time Warner Cable's Adelphia purchase aren't relevant to addressing the "horizontal harms" it feels are posed by the Comcast transaction. Among other things, ACA wants baseball-style commercial arbitration to be applied to all of Comcast-NBCU's national cable nets and the jv to be prohibited from requiring any provider with 125K video subs or less to pay a fee for an NBC station or RSN that is 5% greater than the lowest fee paid by any other distributor for the market's NBC station or area RSN.

Advertising: Comcast Spotlight's iTV ad platform is now available to advertisers in more than 30 US markets (10mln+ homes), with more than 160 advertisers having run 340+ RFI-enabled ad campaigns to date. Spotlight said its expanding iTV lineup includes "Remind Record," which is an overlay on a commercial that provides info about an upcoming program. It's also beginning a companywide rollout of its VOD telescoping app that lets viewers immediately begin watching a VOD program related to the content advertised or to bookmark that VOD program to watch later.

Ratings: The Hub left Discovery Kids' comparative ratings in the dust after taking over the channel spot Sun. Led by top performer "Family Game Night," The Hub's Sun premiere featured a quadruple-digit HH delivery gain in prime versus the prior Sun and a triple-digit HH increase in total day. Total viewers in prime jumped 2,122%, in total day 650%. The Hub is wasting no time ramping up, coming in with a 3-night Taylor Swift special beginning Oct 22 at 7pm ET. "Journey to Fearless"
