

Dennis Mathew
Vice President, Wholesale and Xfinity Home Product Management

Dennis Mathew is the vice president of wholesale and Xfinity Home product management. Xfinity Home is the total home security and automation solution from Comcast. He is responsible for overall business strategy for Comcast's home security and Xfinity Home wholesale businesses.

In this role, Dennis oversees the business strategy for home security and Xfinity Home wholesale businesses, launching of new features, risk management and managing Xfinity Home's capital development budget. He was also a key member of the team that recently acquired Icontrol.

In 2015, Dennis was instrumental in expanding Xfinity Home by integrating new partner devices from leading technology companies including August, Chamberlain, Lutron, and Nest, and launching the certification program, Works with Xfinity Home. In 2010, he played a key leadership role with the initial launch of Xfinity Home, which as of 2017, has almost 1,000,000 subscribers.

Dennis has more than 13 years of experience in the cable and telecommunications industry. Before joining Xfinity Home, he oversaw launches for key Xfinity Home initiatives including DOCSIS 3.0 and wireless gateways, and he was a senior director in Comcast's Internal Audit department.

Prior to Comcast, Dennis held management positions at PwC and Arthur Andersen, where he worked on a variety of technology advisory engagements across several industries.

Dennis was named a "Top 40 Under 40" executive by the Philadelphia Business Journal and Multichannel News. He is a graduate of the National Association for Multi-Ethnicity in Communications (NAMIC) Executive Leadership Development Program and a participant of Comcast's Executive Leadership Career Advancement Program (ELCAP).

A graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, Dennis holds a bachelor of science in Economics, Finance, and Management Information Systems (MIS).

Dennis resides in Bucks county, Pennsylvania with his wife and two children.
